Communications Manager
Updated 5/1/2020

Organization
The Asheville Art Museum, established in 1948 by artists, engages, enlightens, and inspires individuals through exhibitions and programs developed for all ages that interpret its Collection of American art of the 20th and 21st centuries. Anchoring the center of lively downtown Asheville in the Blue Ridge Mountains, the Museum serves residents of the Southeast and Western North Carolina, and visitors from around the country and the world. The Museum recently completed a multiyear expansion and renovation, opening the new Museum in November 2019. Staff has the unique opportunity to be part of the professional team that is shaping the future of this essential community resource.

Position Description
The Communications Manager is an essential position in a highly collaborative professional environment. This position is responsible for strategy, planning, and implementation of the Museum’s public relations and marketing campaigns, internal and external communications programs in all media, publications, and initiatives to increase public understanding of and support for the Museum’s mission and goals. Primary to these efforts is the development and implementation of a consistent and effective institutional message and image. This position requires a highly skilled communicator able to work in both print and digital media formats, and to collaborate successfully with staff, consultants, contractors, members of the media, and stakeholder groups. This position is responsible for developing and implementing opportunities to tell the Museum’s stories through multiple communications channels. This position is responsible for strategic thinking, planning, and implementation to attract significant numbers of visitors annually, to heighten awareness of the Museum locally, nationally, and internationally, and to establish and increase visitation and participation. This position reports to the Director of External Affairs, and co-supervises the Communications/External Affairs Assistant.

Primary Responsibilities/Essential Functions
- Collaboratively create, manage, and implement messaging platforms, communications strategies, public relations efforts, and advertising campaigns for internal, external, and online audiences.
- Direct efforts to maintain and increase media coverage of the Museum’s exhibitions, educational programs, fundraising events, and artwork acquisitions in local, national, and international media.
- Direct efforts of and coordinate with the Communications/External Affairs Assistant to expand public access, develop new audiences, and grow messaging opportunities using a variety of communication tools including but not limited to print and digital newsletters, website, blog, social media channels, video, podcasts, print and digital publications, etc.
• Provide effective leadership and a collaborative approach to cross-marketing with a variety of community, regional, and state partners/constituencies including convention and visitors bureaus, chambers of commerce, state tourism bodies, and other regional destinations.
• Direct all media relations efforts, and serve as spokesperson and/or liaison during press previews and visits.
• Develop, execute, and evaluate a marketing strategy for a fast-moving, richly diverse calendar of exhibitions, fundraising events, educational programs, and publications, digital resources, etc.
• Articulate key Museum issues and positions in a range of communication channels.
• Employ current marketing and sales techniques, including print/electronic advertising campaigns and Web-based promotions, to target and attract a variety of diverse audiences including families and young adults.
• With Museum staff, manage on-the-ground logistics and provide advance staffing at PR events and executive presentations. Brief speakers on audience, venue logistics, tone, and delivery style.
• Provide crisis communications counsel as needed.
• Manage the Museum’s aesthetic brand and graphic identity, and oversee production of collateral print materials, digital resources, advertising, promotional programs, and signage.
• Serve as editor, and/or coordinate with contractors, for all print and electronic communications. Edit materials provided by Museum staff, fellows, interns, volunteers, and/or other authors to align with the Museum’s style guide.
• Oversee development and maintenance of writing standards including tone, voice, and style for various audiences.
• Develop and maintain departmental budget.
• Manage work with public relations and marketing consultants or agencies, as needed.
• Create and assess metrics to gauge and evaluate the effectiveness and impact of media activities, and prepare routine reports that detail these activities.
• Work collaboratively with Museum leadership and departmental managers to deliver excellent service to Museum staff, volunteers, Members, and visitors. Collaborate with Museum staff and volunteers on initiatives, projects, and goals.
• Interact with the arts community and civic bodies as an advocate for the arts and the Museum.

Special Requirements
This year round, full-time position with full benefits may at times require a flexible schedule, accommodating emergencies, and after-hours work including weekend and evening hours. The incumbent should have a valid driver’s license and be able to stand, walk, lift items up to 25 pounds, handle tools or controls, use close vision, and travel periodically for meetings or Museum business.

Education/Experience
The ideal candidate will have:
• An undergraduate or graduate degree, academic training, and work experience in public relations, marketing, and communications.
• 8+ years combined experience in communications, public relations, media relations, and/or marketing.
• Superb writing, editing, and storytelling skills.
• Excellent verbal communication skills including public speaking.
• Ability to maintain confidentiality and the highest standards of professional ethics and integrity.
• Excellent computer, design, editorial, marketing, and social-media skills. Good working knowledge of Microsoft Office applications, website content management systems (e.g. WordPress), and graphic design software (e.g. Adobe Creative Suite) a must.
• Ability to work independently, collaboratively, and efficiently.
• Ability to multitask, prioritize, and find creative solutions in a fast-paced office environment.
• Ability to manage an annual budget.
• Well developed media contacts and a knowledge of museum operations, the arts industry, and arts marketing are desirable.
